

Desert and Western Celebrations Abound in Southland Next Month

October will be a month of fairs, flower shows and unique desert and western celebrations in Southern California, according to the events calendar issued today by the All-Year Club, community organization for advertising the area's half-billion dollar-a-year tourist industry.

The Los Angeles County Fair which opened Sept. 17 lasts until Oct. 8 on the beautiful 350-acre fairgrounds at Pomona, with 40,000 displays in 20 major divisions.

Seven new buildings of Indian architecture house the Hemet Farmers' Fair and Festival, Oct. 6-10.

Seaside Park in Ventura is the scene Oct. 6-10 of the Ventura County Fair.

Grape pickers parade in native costumes — Italian, Russian, Chinese, Czechoslovakian — in the Delano Wine and Harvest Festival, Oct. 7-10.

The Kern County Livestock Show in Bakersfield, Sept. 28-Oct. 3, includes prize livestock and farm products.

Anaheim holds its 25th annual Halloween Festival Oct. 30, with community breakfast of 25000 costumed citizens, followed by kids' parade at 2 p.m. and Grand Costume Parade at 7 p.m.

Whittier holds a Halloween Celebration Oct. 30, with a parade, awards for costumes, and program at Hadley Field.

A parade of floats depicts early days of Twenty-nine Palms in a Centennial Celebration Oct. 16-17.

Palm Springs observes Western Week Oct. 28-31 with Kangaroo Courts, barbecue and gymkhana.

The hard-rock drilling championship of the U.S.A. will be decided during the Mojave Gold Rush Days Oct. 16-17.

Mines send crack drilling teams to compete. Turtle and jumping frog races, log-sawing, cap-and-ball marksmanship contests are in store for visitors to San Bernardino Covered Wagon Days Oct. 21-23.

New varieties of roses are displayed in the annual Rose Show of the Pacific Rose Society, held this year at the Huntington Hotel, Pasadena, Oct. 14.

Glendale's annual Dahlia Show will be held Oct. 23 in the Glendale Civic Auditorium.

FCC to Give Farmers Own Wave Length

The walkie is fine, but the talkie is objected to by the Federal Communications Commission, according to Burnell Yarek, assistant farm advisor in Los Angeles county.

These units are available as army surplus on a wave length of 4.80 megacycles, and are supposed to transmit about one mile. They are often picked up 40 miles away, however, and local courts have given fines up to $500 plus five years on probation for using this wave length.

In the near future, the FCC will probably allocate a definite "agricultural" band for farmers. It is needed and will probably be used considerably.
